A Word From SASE President Kathleen Thelen

A warm welcome to Paris for SASE's 2009 Meeting!

This year's meeting marks SASE's twentieth anniversary and I am pleased to report that the organization is thriving. In fact at the time of this writing it appears we are poised to break our previous conference attendance record, and for this we have several people to thank. First, I thank Patrick Le Galès for not saying "no" when I approached him a year and a half ago about holding the 2009 conference in Paris. I was thrilled when he agreed to spearhead the organizing process, and I am deeply grateful to him as well as to the other members of the local organizing committee – Bruno Palier, Sophie Dubuisson, Pierre François, Emiliano Grossman, Nicolas Jabko, Christine Musselin, Michael Storper, and Cornelia Woll – for making it possible for us to hold this conference in one of Europe's most attractive cities. SASE is tremendously grateful to CSO Director Christine Musselin for giving the organization a home in Paris. My thanks also to the on-site staff, who, despite their many other professional commitments are always on board when needed, and to the student volunteers at the conference whose work allows us to focus on the scholarly offerings. And finally, our great thanks to Richard Descoings for graciously agreeing to host the meeting at SciencesPo.

Second, I extend warmest thanks – and congratulations -- to this year's program chairs, Patrick Le Galès and Cathie Jo Martin. Patrick and Cathie have put together a program that features an unusually deep and rich set of offerings, something that we can attribute to the proactive role they played in initiating panels and recruiting a top-flight set of featured speakers. Heartfelt thanks are due as well to our network organizers who provide indispensable leadership and service to the organization and are in fact the crucial link to our broad and diverse membership base. Putting together a program of this caliber is hard and time-consuming work, and those of us who are able to enjoy the fruits of these collective efforts are deeply in debt to all of these colleagues.

I extend separate and very special thanks to Martha Zuber, a.k.a., SASE lady, who in the nearly two years since she became our executive director, has brought a huge injection of energy and vitality to our organization. Every day, Martha brings the entirety of very broad arsenal of talents and resources to bear on behalf of SASE. For her boundless optimism and creativity, for her ideas and initiative, for her tireless work to translate these ideas into reality, I am deeply grateful. This year's conference has benefited from Martha's formidable Parisian networks, but also from her hard work in researching and implementing a new and more efficient conference planning system (the All-Academic system). But also, at a more general level, Martha has been an extremely positive force in SASE's development, taking the initiative and undertaking myriad projects that have improved and much rejuvenated our organization.

We thank the featured speakers who have taken time out of their schedules to be with us this weekend, and we are especially pleased this year to be joined by Amitai Etzioni, who founded our organization back in 1989. We hope that he is pleased to find SASE, on this, its twentieth anniversary, thriving and growing.

I have enjoyed working over the last year with all of these friends as well as with friends and colleagues on the executive board, who gave of their time to serve on the board and on prize and other committees that are central to SASE's mission. Now it is time for me to pass on the torch. I am grateful to Michael Piore who at this time last year passed on to me an exceptionally vibrant and healthy organization, and now I am delighted to do the same with Jonathan Zeitlin. Having Jonathan at SASE's helm allows me to step aside in the knowledge that our organization is in truly excellent hands.

I wish you all a productive and stimulating few days at the conference, and an enjoyable stay in Paris.

**All featured speakers will give their talks at 27 rue Saint Guillaume:
Amphithéâtre Emile Boutmy****

Robert Boyer is an economist currently at CEPREMAP (Paris) and GRE-DEG (Sophia Antipolis). His major research interests are in institutional and historical macroeconomics, innovation and growth analysis, labor markets and wage labor nexus, international comparisons of capitalisms, European integration, and financial crises. He is a contributor to régulation theory that investigates the factors that shape institutional and technological long term evolutions; i.e. growth regimes as well as cyclical and structural crises. For the past decade he has analyzed the origins, diffusion and crisis of the American finance-led accumulation regime.

Neil Fligstein is the Class of 1939 Chancellor's Professor in the Department of Sociology at the University of California and the Director of the Center for Culture, Organization, and Politics at the Institute of Industrial Relations. His main research interests lie in the fields of economic sociology, organizational theory, and institutional theory. He recently completed a book entitled Euroclash: The EU, European Identity, and the future of Europe (Oxford University Press, 2008) and is currently working with Doug McAdam on a book analyzing how institutions are formed. He recently began a project to analyze the causes of the current financial crisis in the U.S.

Kellee S. Tsai is Professor of Political Science and Director of East Asian Studies at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland, USA. Her most recent book is Capitalism Without Democracy: The Private Sector in Contemporary China (Cornell University Press, 2007). She is also the author of Back-Alley Banking: Private Entrepreneurs in China (Cornell University Press, 2002), co-author of Rural Industrialization and Non-Governmental Finance: Insights from Wenzhou (in Chinese, Shanxi Economics Press, 2004), co-editor of Japan and China in the World Political Economy (Routledge, 2005), and several articles.

Philippe Steiner is a longstanding member of France's economic sociology field and a professor of sociology at the Université Paris IV, Sorbonne. The third edition of his book La sociologie économique was published by La Découverte (2007). His current work examines the market for human body organs. His most recent publication, Traité de Sociologie Economique, co-edited with Francois Vatin, will be published by Les Presses Universitaires de France in September.

About This Program

This conference schedule has been loosely divided into two event types: speakers and sessions. The latter category includes all panels, including featured panels and author-meets-critic events. In an attempt to limit scheduling conflicts, sessions and featured speakers do not overlap.

Featured speakers are all listed in the at-a-glance calendar.

There are 9 time slots for sessions during the conference, as indicated on the at-a-glance calendar. Since there are concurrent sessions scheduled into each time slot, each session has been identified with a letter and a number. The letter corresponds to the network organizing the session and is paired with a number to create a unique identifier to help you locate the session in the program. Featured Panels are listed as FP and Mini-Conference Themes as TH.

To find out where and when a given participant is presenting, you can look at the participant list in the back of this program. Next to his or her name, you will find the panels in which he or she is presenting, as well as the times of those panels. For example: Jane Smith, A13, Monday 1:30. Once you have this information, you can go to the main schedule and look for the A13 panel on Monday at 1:30.

The main schedule provides a detailed list of sessions (titles, locations, participants, etc.) in chronological order. To help you navigate it more quickly, a list of sessions organized by network appears just before it in this program.

Mini Conference Themes

This year, SASE is re-introducing a series of sessions designed to provide a space in which scholars may spend time discussing selected number of focused socio-economic themes in depth. These “mini-conferences” are unique to this year’s conference. Each mini-conference consists of a series of panels, and each panel has a discussant, meaning that selected participants submitted completed papers by June 2009.

Welcome to Paris!

Some information about the conference and its location:

Sciences Po is located in Saint Germain des Prés, one of the most renowned neighborhoods of Paris. Since the 17th century, it has been the nexus of literary and artistic life in Paris. From Delacroix and Manet to Racine and Balzac to Simone de Beauvoir and Jean-Paul Sartre, many writers, intellectuals, and artists have left their mark here.

GETTING AROUND

TELEPHONE OVERVIEW- HOW TO CALL FRANCE FROM ANOTHER COUNTRY

Dial the international code 00, the code of the country; then the number without the first 0. With the France Télécom Pays Direct service, you can obtain an operator in your own country free of charge. If you wish, the operator can establish reverse-charge calls for you. For this service, dial 0 800 99 00 and the country code. Common country codes: 49 for Germany, 44 for the United Kingdom, 39 for Italy; 34 for Spain, 11 (AT&T) or 19 (MCI) for the United States, 16 for Canada (0 800 99 30 16 AT&T Canada)

USING THE METRO SYSTEM

The metro is a quick and easy way to travel around the city, as well as the best value. The Paris metro has around 300 stations. Their entrances are usually marked by a big yellow “M”. It runs on 16 lines, numbered from 1 to 14, 3bis and 7bis. Each line has a color, which you’ll find on signs in the stations and on all the RATP maps. Connections between lines make your journey easy to plan. For an idea of your journey time, allow an average of TWO minutes per station and add 5 minutes for each connection.

Maps of the public transport network, in all shapes and sizes, are available free of charge at the ticket offices, as well as at all the information centers of the Paris Convention and Visitors Bureau. Large-scale maps are also displayed on the platforms and at the entrance to each station. The metro operates every day including public holidays, from around 6:00 AM to 12:30 AM. Times of the first and last trains vary depending on the point along the line from which you are departing.

METRO FARES

A single metro ticket costs €1.60, and can be used for one journey, including all connections. Tickets are white in color and can be purchased individually or in a book of 10 (carnet) for €11.40, at the ticket offices or machines in metro stations, and also in some tobacconists.

RIDING BY BUS

On the buses, you use the same tickets as in the metro, with no limit of distance (including suburbs), except on the Balabus, Noctilien and routes 221, 297, 299, 350, and 351. The bus driver can sell single tickets

OR TAKE A BOAT!

The Batobus is a shuttle-boat service that enables you to take trips along the Seine without guided commentary and to hop on and off at eight stops: Eiffel Tower, Champs-Élysées, Musée d’Orsay, Louvre, Saint-Germain-des-Prés, Notre-Dame, Hôtel de Ville, and Jardin des Plantes. The service operates from 10:00 AM to 9:00 PM. Boats depart every 15 to 25 minutes.

Awards Ceremony and Gala Reception:

Capitalism in Crisis at the Paris Stock Exchange:

Opening Address by Bruno Latour, Vice President for Research at Sciences-Po

SASE's reception will be held this year beneath the gilded ceilings of the Paris Stock Exchange — a fitting venue for continuing the conversation on Capitalism in Crisis. Built by order of Napoleon Bonaparte and witness to over two centuries of momentous fortune and failure, the Palais de la Bourse is located next to the historic Les Halles quarter in the heart of Paris.

Getting there is simple: either take a taxi or take Metro line 3 to the Bourse metro station. Please join us at 6:30PM on Friday, July 17th at the Place de la Bourse for the awards ceremony and reception. Opening Address by Bruno Latour, Vice President for Research at Sciences-Po.

Be sure to bring your name tag or invitation included with the program for admission to the gala reception.

Meals

Conference participants are on their own for breakfast and lunch. Coffee will be served between sessions at 13, rue de l'Université (see map page 6).

2009 Socio-Economic Review Annual Prize

Lane Kenworthy and Leslie McCall

Congratulations to Lane Kenworthy and Leslie McCall, whose article 'Inequality, public opinion, and redistribution' (SER 1/2008), won the second annual prize for the best submitted article published in the previous year. They will be honored at the awards ceremony on Friday evening.

SASE would also like to congratulate the runners-up, Kurtulus Gemici ('Karl Polyani and the antinomies of embeddedness', SER 1/2008) and Nina Bandelj ('Economic objects as cultural objects: cultural articulations and contestations of economic globalization,' SER 4/2008).

About Socio-Economic Review

We are delighted to announce that Socio-Economic Review (SER) is now listed in the Web of Science. SER is the official journal of the Society for the Advancement of Socio-Economics. It is part of a broader movement in the social sciences that returns to the economy's socio-political foundations. Devoted to advancing socio-economics, the Review deals with the analytical, political and moral questions arising at the intersection between economy and society. Articles in SER explore how the economy is or should be governed by social relations, institutional rules, political decisions, and cultural values. SER considers the different ways in which the economy affects society, such as by breaking up old institutional forms and giving rise to new ones. The scope of the journal is deliberately broad, and thus opens the debate to new variations on its general theme. Its editorial structure allows editors to engage intellectually with authors and their submissions.

To find out more about SER, including detailed information on how to submit a paper, please look at the website at <http://ser.oxfordjournals.org>.

Capitalism in Crisis: What's Next?

Economic Regulation and Social Solidarity after the Fall of Finance Capitalism

To paraphrase the ancient Chinese curse, we have the questionable privilege of living in interesting times. As the recent financial crisis made agonizingly clear, the future of capitalism is up for grabs and, at a minimum, the years of neo-liberal triumph have come to an end. One craves a lantern at this dark and troubling moment, and the 2009 annual conference of the Society of the Advancement of Socio-Economics will provide illumination into the crisis and its aftermath.

First, we encourage scholars to explore the causes for the current economic decline and their implications for modes of regulating advanced capitalist economies. What has been the impact of globalization without regulation and does the current crisis signal a death knell for laissez-faire capitalism? How have different countries and regions attempted to manage the transition to post-industrial capitalism and what models have worked best to weather the current economic upheaval? What will be the role of the state and political contestation in the transition to a new regulatory regime and in managing post-financial, post-industrial capitalism?

Second, we welcome contributions that consider whether economic efficiency can be reconciled with social solidarity under the new rules of capitalist competition. Institutional arrangements supporting managed capitalism have been challenged by new market pressures, neo-liberal ideology, and economic, social and political uncertainties. What is the future for the social and political institutions that support egalitarian forms of capitalism? How do contemporary developments resonate with historical turning points that gave rise to the development of key social and political institutions? We also welcome contributions that compare evolving forms of capitalism in developing and transition societies, and papers that contrast institutional development in these countries with changes in developed countries. Scholars might choose to investigate the challenges posed by globalization, the transition to a service economy, immigration, financial integration (and disintegration), and religious or ethnic strife – and to explore how various institutional realms at the national and international levels interact and respond to contemporary challenges.

Finally, while the literature on “models” or “varieties” of capitalism is vast, it has paid little attention to the dynamics of change in contemporary capitalism and, rather, has identified distinctive – yet static – constellations that are linked to varied political and policy outcomes. The enormous problems we face in the twenty-first century require scholars to move beyond the traditional comparative-statics “comfort zone” of institutional analysis. We invite scholars to bring insights from their specific empirical studies to develop new concepts and tools for analyzing institutional change today.

SASE 2009 Thème de la conférence

SciencesPo.

Paris, du 16 au 18 juillet 2009

Le capitalisme en crise : régulation économique et mécanismes de solidarité

Nous traversons une époque de changements profonds. La présente crise financière fait ressortir de manière éclatante toutes les incertitudes pesant sur le futur du capitalisme. Faut-il y voir le signe d'une reconquête possible de celui-ci par le contrôle des États? À tout le moins, cette crise marque la fin d'une période de triomphe du capitalisme financier, soutenu par l'idéologie que l'on taxe, souvent trop rapidement, de néolibéralisme. À l'heure où la recherche de solutions pour sortir de la crise se fait de plus en plus pressante, nous espérons que la XXIème conférence de la SASE en 2009 sera l'occasion de mettre en évidence les effets de cette crise et de réfléchir sur l'évolution des modes de régulation.

Par conséquent, nous souhaitons en premier lieu encourager les intervenants de ce colloque à explorer les causes de la crise de 2008, ainsi que ses conséquences en termes de régulation et de réglementation des économies capitalistes. Quel a été l'impact de la globalisation non régulée? La crise financière marque-t-elle le début d'une nouvelle période de régulation, et la fin du «laissez-faire» capitaliste? Comment différents pays, différentes régions du monde ont-ils fait face à la transition post-industrielle? Comment ont-ils réagi à la crise des marchés financiers? Quel sera le rôle de l'État et des mouvements politiques contestataires dans la transition vers une nouvelle régulation? Peut-on parler d'une nouvelle forme de capitalisme, à la fois post-financier et post-industriel, et appelant à la création de nouvelles règles? Quels sont les effets de la crise dans les villes, et quelles stratégies peuvent-elles adopter? Comment bénéficient-elles de la croissance apportée par la globalisation, et quel impact a la crise sur leur développement? Tels sont les questions que nous souhaiterions voir soulevées lors de ce colloque.

En second lieu, nous souhaitons recevoir des contributions abordant la question d'une réconciliation entre solidarité sociale et efficacité économique au sein d'un nouveau système de règles de la concurrence capitaliste. Par le passé, certains pays ont su conjuguer efficacité économique et faible niveau d'inégalité. Plus récemment, ces formes de régulations plus égalitaires du capitalisme se sont vus érodées sous la pression de marchés plus mondialisés, et d'incertitudes d'ordre économique, politique et social. Quel sera le devenir des institutions sociales et politiques qui rendent le capitalisme plus égalitaire? Dans quelle mesure la situation actuelle fait-elle écho aux débats et revirements historiques qui donnèrent lieu à la création de ces institutions? Les communications souhaitées devraient aussi aborder l'évolution comparée des différentes formes de capitalismes présentes dans les pays en transition ou en développement. L'accent pourra aussi être mis sur les défis posés par la globalisation, la transition vers une économie de service, l'intégration - et la désintégration - financière, les conflits religieux ou ethniques, qui sont autant de facteurs pouvant contribuer à la transformation des systèmes capitalistes et aggraver les inégalités.

Enfin, si la littérature abonde en matière de modèles et de typologie des différentes formes de capitalisme, les dynamiques les plus contemporaines n'ont pas toujours été clarifiées. Le capitalisme du XXIème siècle et ses conséquences nécessitent une mobilisation intellectuelle allant au-delà des comparaisons statiques de l'analyse institutionnelle. Nous accueillerons ainsi les contributions qui porteront particulièrement sur les dynamiques institutionnelles des différents capitalismes et leurs effets comme facteur d'inégalité.

Announcing the 22nd Annual Conference Theme

Governance Across Borders: Coordination, Regulation, and Contestation in the Global Economy

It is a commonplace that despite growing economic globalization there is no global government. Yet it is scarcely less common to observe that the global economy does not operate under conditions of anarchy or through arms-length market exchange alone. Not only is most cross-border trade, investment, and production coordinated through multinational corporations and inter-firm supply chains, but these activities themselves are subject to an increasingly dense—if far from complete or coherent—web of transnational rules, norms, and standards. These rules in turn are produced, contested, and enforced by varying combinations of public and private actors, including not only national states, whose own regulatory authority they circumscribe, but also international organizations, regional blocs, trade and professional associations, multinational firms, expert bodies, NGOs, and advocacy networks.

This year's conference focuses on the development, dynamics, impact, and implications of emerging forms of transnational governance in the global economy – public, private, and hybrid. Thus we welcome contributions on topics such as the organization of multinational corporations, professional service firms, global supply chains, and financial and commodity markets; the operation of rule-making and standard-setting bodies like the WTO, the European Union, the International Accounting Standards Board, and private rating agencies; “civil regulation” of labor and environmental standards through corporate codes of conduct and certification schemes; and the role of business and/or civil society actors in transnational rule making. Participants might equally choose to examine themes such as the interplay between governance processes at different levels (transnational, regional, national, subnational), the impact of transnational regulation on national institutions and policies in developed and developing countries, its influence on the strategies of different types of actors, and its consequences for the distribution of power and resources.

Finally, we invite contributors to consider the explanatory and evaluative challenges raised by the current development of transnational governance. How far, for example, can this be explained in terms of the Polanyian “double movement” of disembedding and re-embedding of markets in society, still perhaps the most widespread paradigm in Socio-Economics? What alternative theoretical frameworks are available? How should we evaluate transnational governance arrangements, individually and in the aggregate? Are they effective, accountable, legitimate, and sustainable? Are they, or could they become, democratic?

Re-Forming Capitalism Institutional Change in the German Political Economy Wolfgang Streeck

Wolfgang Streeck is a leading figure in comparative political economy and institutional theory. In this book he addresses some of the key arguments in these fields: the role of history in institutional analysis, the dynamics of slow institutional change, and the recurrent difficulties of restraining the effects of capitalism on social order.

December 2008 | 320 pages
Hardback | 978-0-19-955677-9 | £45.00 £36.00

The Oxford Handbook of Sociology and Organization Studies Classical Foundations Edited by Paul S. Adler

This Handbook re-asserts the importance of classical sociology as a rich source of insight for contemporary work in Organization Studies, and demonstrates the way in which these pioneers were deeply engaged with practical, social, and political issues of their time, compared with the increasingly academic focus of research in more recent decades.

March 2009 | 700 pages
Hardback | 978-0-19-953523-1 | £85.00 £68.00

Business Systems and Organizational Capabilities The Institutional Structuring of Competitive Competences Richard Whitley

Whitley is one of the leading exponents of the 'business systems' approach which analyses the different character and organization of firms in different national settings. Here he summarizes his approach and links it to the capabilities and strategies of firms.

November 2007 | 416 pages
Paperback | 978-0-19-920518-9 | £25.00 £20.00

Reforming Early Retirement in Europe, Japan and the USA Bernhard Ebbinghaus

Early retirement has become a major problem in modern societies. Focusing on the USA, Europe, and Japan, this book provides a comprehensive, empirical analysis of why different early exit schemes have emerged across advanced market economies, why this trend has been so difficult to counter, and the resulting policy reforms.

October 2008 | 352 pages
Paperback | 978-0-19-955339-6 | £19.99 £15.99

Socio-Economic Review

Socio-Economic Review aims to encourage work on the relationship between society, economy, institutions and markets, moral commitments and the rational pursuit of self-interest. The journal seeks articles that focus on economic action in its social and historical context. In broad disciplinary terms, papers are drawn from sociology, political science, economics and the management and policy sciences. The journal encourages papers that seek to recombine disciplinary domains in response to practically relevant issues, while at the same time encouraging the development of new theory.
